CREAT RABBIT COURSING EVENT

Encountered the Opposition of the Humane Society of Chicago.

BIG BETTING MATCH FOILED

Five Hundred sports, Hounds, Rabbits and the Crowd Driven to the Outskirts of Town.

Five hundred sports devoted to rabbit coursing encountered the opposition of the Humane society when they tried to bring off the biggest event of the season at Forty Seventh street and Western avenue, Chicago, yesterday (Sunday) afternoon. They were compelled to leave the inclosure at the warning of officers from the Brighton Park police station, but finally brought off the match just outside the city limits and in eight of the officers. Plans for the coursing were on a scale that would do credit to a Sunday afternoon affair in California. It had been widely advertised and promised to be a big betting match. The purse was said to be the largest ever ceffred for a coursing event in Chicago. The rabbits were jacks of the Kansas variety guaranteed to out-

It was the intention of the managers, it is said, to make the race the first of a long line of similar events, but at instigation of the Humane society, the police were ordered to stop the af-fair. The managers, however, did not propose to be cheated out of the sport The hounds, rabbits and the crowd were started to an other spot, but the police followed. After two hours' travelling and a great deal of inconvenience they reached the city limits, and decided to have the race in the open. The affair, however, was unsatisfactory, and no decision was rendered. The promoters announced that they would make another attempt to have the race, and will invite members of the Humane society to witness the af-

The family recently came in from Eureka, where it had been exposed to the disease, and shortly after arriving here Mr. and Mrs. Daley and some of the children came down with it. About the same time these cases were reported by the board of health several cases of scarlet fever developed so the yellow flag is now posted in sev-eral places in town. The first and only case of smallpox here until this family came down, was that of Agent Thornton of the O. S. L. depot who broke out on Christmas day. fly pushing to the south. In the fall of 1875 D. W. Jones, accompanied by Helaman Pratt, J. Z. Stewart, R. H. Smith, Ammon M. Tenny, Wiley C. Jones and the undersigned, left Utah to carry the Gospe! into Mexico, and explore and report to President Young the facilities offered by the country traversed for colonization. There were at that time no Latter-day Saints on the Little Colorado nor in the beautiful Salt River valley, where so many of our people have since found homes. These localities were explored, the party passed into Mexico by way of El Paso, reached the city of Chihuahua, went west to the Sierra Madre and following north along its base, passed over the ground where Colonia Dubian is now located, and near where Colonia Juarez and Diaz have since been established. Meetings were held, hundreds of copies of selec-tions from the Book of Mormon, translated into the Spanish language were distributed, after which the party re-to Utah. The following year, 1877, Helaman Pratt and J. Z. Stewart, returned to Mexico, preaching the Gospel in the States of Sonora and Chihuahua. Next came the introduction of the Gospel in the City of Mexico by Apostle Moses Thatcher, and later the movement which resulted in the permanent establishment of colonies in the States of Chihuahua and Sonora, Colonia Oaxaca, on the Bavispe river, being in the latter State.

turned to the United States and later

In the winter of 1895 the Mexican colonles were organized into the Juarez Sake of Zion, by Apostles Lyman and Teasdale, and the writer appointed to preside, with Henry Eyring and Helaman Pratt to act as counselors. Flattering reports having reached the olonies regarding the facilities for colonization which were to be found in the state of Sonora, particularly in the Casa de Teras valley, a party left Colonia Juarez in January, 1897, for the purpose In proceeding down the Bavispe river to reach the Casa de Teras, we passed fields until March, then raise a far bet-ter crop as a result of the pasturing. the point where the San Bernardino Joseph Carlicks, all residents of the as above stated. We were greatly pleased with the facilities for colonization which this tract of land possessed, and after examining the Casa de Teras, 25 miles down the river, were unant-mous in the opinion that the Batapito was best adapted to our purpose, and negotiations were at once entered into for the purchase of the tract, which consists of about twelve thousand acres of land. Investigation proved that the ranch was for sale, but the price de-manded was beyond our reach. In January, 1898, the locality was again visited and a more critical examination made. The result was more satisfactory than the previous visit had been, and a renewed effort was made to effect a purchase. Negotiations were continued, with varied prospects of success, until on Dec. 4, 1899, the title to the Batapito and Rusballo ranches passed from the own-er, Colin Cameron, to the Mexican Colonization and Agricaltural company.

On the day that this deal was consummated, Apostle A. O. Woodruff and Sister A. W. McCune started from Colonia Dublan, their objective point being the Batapito, distant 175 miles, by the route traveled, via Colonia Diaz and Oaxaca. On the 10th they were joined at Oaxaca by the writer and Hyrum S. Harris, and the following day the party accompanied by a number of brethren and sisters from Caxaca, drove down and camped on the bank of the river upon the ground where we all hope to see, in the near future, a prosperous and happy community. The ranch was inspected, dinner served upon the river bank, the bill of fare comprising among other things, venison from a fine buck killed on the ground by one of the par-ty, cat fish taken from the river, one fish being ample for twenty persons, and quail also killed near the camp.
As night settled around us our party gathered and by the light of the camp fire songs of praise and thanksgiving were sung, prayers of adoration and supplication rendered to Jehovah, and then, with the whole company kneeling round the camp fire Apostle ruff dedicated the land to the Lord, to be a gathering place for His people. As the servant of the Lord, in the autherity of the Holy Apostleship poured out his soul in prayer and supplication, the Holy Ghost decended in a remarkable degree upon the assembly. Remarks were made by each person present, the spirit of testimony and prophecy being strongly manifest in what was said. Alone, fifteen hundred miles from the body of the Church, gathered round that camp fire with the wolves howling dismally round us, we were reminded of the experiences of our fathers fifty years ago, when they braved the dangers of the unknown West, the vanguard of civilization and progress. Surely the sons should be equal to the tasks which their fathers accomplished. Our party consisted of the following persons: Apostle A. O. Woodruff, Eliz-abeth C. McCune, A. W. Ivins, Hela-man Pratt, George C. Naegle, Sabra Naegle, Caroline D. Johnson, Leah Pratt, Heber K. Maxim, Caroline Maxim, Ell A. Clayson, Daniel C. Naegle, Alma Hawkins, James A. Jones, David W. Johnson, Samuel E. Western, William G. Clemens, Preston H. Jones, James M.Clemens, Elizabeth Jorgensen, Lorina E. Jones, Orange Jones, Hyrum S. Harris, John C. Naegle, Samuel Lewis, a member of the Mormon Battalion, who camped on this creek fifty-three years ago, Anna A. Naegle, Harriet E. Hawkins, Lucinda J. Clemens, P. C. Haynie, Henrietta P. Haynie, Julia A. Babbitt Johnson, A. D. Thurber, and Bethel Haynle and Joseph Hawkins, the latter two infants, a roll of honor, not of men who, at the sacrifice of life and treasure have prevailed against their fellows, but men and women who offer their substaance, and lives if necessary that peace and good will may prevail among men, and the life of Christ be-come their guiding star. On the 12th we returned to Oaxaca, and the following morning Apostle Woodruff and Sister McCune turned their faces northward hoping to spend the Christmas holidays with dear ones at home. I tighten my saddle girth and somewhat rejuctantly turn to the south to under-take a horseback ride of three hundred

OPINIONS HANDED DOWN. Attorney-General Bishop Replies to Three County Attorneys.

Several opinions have been handed down by Attorney General Bishop in answer to questions from three county attorneys. In reply to County Attorney Curtis of Emery county, the attorney general held that parties in and damaging a public highway were act any such other responsible for the same, that road supervisors have not the right to accept HORAL private crossings over public highways and keep them in repair thereafter at the expense of the county. In reply to another question, he says that a school district can construct a school house by day's labor under the direction and nanagement of the trustees or suitable person employed by them, without advertising.

The attorney general in replying to County Attorney Ryan of San Juan county, held that the Legislature intended that all county roads should be surveyed and plats and specifications thereof made and one copy filed with the county clerk and one copy with the State board of land commissioners. County Attorney Melville of Millard county, in answer to a question asked by him was informed that when property was once sold for taxes and bid in by the county that no further advertisement and sale thereof should be necessary so long as the county held such certificates of sale. The property should be assessed each year and the taxes on it would enhance the amount of the county's lien.
